"ALMIGHTY GOD" WINS OUT IN THE PREAMBLE

Guthrie, Okla., Dec. 13.—It required only fifteen minutes of the convention's time, last night to remodel the proposed preamble, substituting "Almighty God" for "Supreme Ruler of the Universe" and adopt it. The lobbies were packed and expecting more debate, but the matter passed quickly and without contention.

A petition was filed from a number of voters asking the convention to keep in restraint all corporations as Texas has, to prevent child labor and to adopt the initiative and referendum. An invitation has been extended to Gov. Folk of Missouri to address the convention. A memorial to congress to make the Arkansas River navigable from Tulsa to the mouth was referred.

Among the constitutional provisions was one regulating railroads by Mr. Williams of Durant. It includes the Texas constitutional provisions and all the statutes on the subject arranged in subdivisions. It is proposed to make the constitutional declaration unchangeable and the statutory portion susceptible of alteration as future conditions necessitate. Today Mr. Williams proposes to offer the Texas stock and bond law.

A resolution by Mr. Leahy authorizing appointment of a commission of five to ascertain the scope and value of the coal deposits of Indian Territory and the advisability of purchase, and to report to the next governor went under the rules.

Choctaw and Chickasaw people held the boards before the county boundary committee yesterday which ended the public hearings. A delegation of the Tulsa people arrived yesterday to oppose the making of small counties in Indian Territory. They want the old recording district recognized and will make a floor fight in the convention if the committee's report is adverse.

Chairman R. J. Allen of the committee put a permanent quietus on the present rumors that the committee had a map already prepared, fixing the county boundaries, by making a positive announcement that not a single line of a map of any kind had been drawn by or for the committee.

He declared further that the committee had not agreed on a single proposition affecting the future boundaries of any county in the new state.

"We have been only listening to the arguments presented to us so far," said President Allen, "and we will not take up the work of fixing county boundaries until the hearings before the committee are closed."

J. J. McAlester of McAlester and R. L. Owens of Muskogee were before the special committee on segregated surface lands and mineral deposits of Indian Territory, advocating the state's ownership of the properties.

Eight constitutional propositions were introduced.

Wreck on Santa Fe.

Guthrie, Ok., Dec. 13.—The north-bound through passenger train No. 18, on the main line of the Santa Fe, went into the ditch near Seward, six miles south of here, last night, and two persons, R. A. James, a cowman of Ennis, Texas, and Kate Kieselmann, a Russian emigrant, were injured.

For Removal of Restrictions.

Washington, Dec. 13.—Mr. Stephens introduced a bill yesterday to remove the restrictions on all the surplus allotments of Indians other than full-bloods. It applies to the leasing as well as to the selling of lands.

A. M. Croxton returned this noon from Chickasha where he had been on legal business.

A Western Wonder.

There's a Hill at Bowie, Texas, that's twice as big as last year. This wonder is W. L. Hill, who from a weight of 90 pounds has grown to over 180. He says: "I suffered with a terrible cough, and doctors gave me up to die of Consumption. I was reduced to 90 pounds, when I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Now, after taking 12 bottles, I have more than doubled in weight and am completely cured." Only sure Cough and Cold cure. Guaranteed by Dr. F. Z. Holley and G. M. Ramsey, druggists, 50c and $1. Trial bottle free.

WAGED PISTOL DUAL WITH KINSMAN, THEN SUICIDED

Bristow, I. T., Dec. 13.—After fighting a pistol duel which lasted for more than an hour and in which more than 50 shots were fired, with S. T. Clemmons whose marriage to his sister-in-law he opposed, M. L. Bradford Tuesday evening sent a bullet into his own brain, dying instantly. Clemmons was arrested but after a hearing before United States Commissioner Hyams, at Tulsa last afternoon, he was released.

Mrs. Clemmons lived with Mr. and Mrs. Bradford until last summer at Parsons, in the Choctaw nation. She married Mr. Clemmons and they moved to Bristow, and have resided here since. Bradford came here this week. He sent a note to his sister-in-law, saying he wanted to see her. She answered saying she would have nothing to do with him. Bradford then started for the Clemmons home and the battle started, at least fifty shots being fired.

Mrs. Clemmons ran from the house and begged Bradford to kill her and spare her husband, and at this, according to her statement, he turned his revolver to his own head and cried:

"Well here goes!"
He fired and then dropped over dead, Mrs. Clemmons states.

"Kilties" Tonight.

The question, what do the Kilties play is often asked. Some think it is all bag-piping, not so. The Kilties who are Canada's greatest concert band play all the standard music from the old masters, all the popular music from the new operas, all the rag-times, marches, two steps and up-to-date rag-time marches, two steps, etc.

To relieve the monotony and dullness of a band concert, they intersperse their band numbers with a bag-pipe solo by the greatest piper in the world; by Scotch ballads by the famous Kilties Choir, and by four or five characteristic English, Scotch and Irish dances by the famous Clan, Angus, McMillan, Fraser troupe. This combination of entertainment makes the two hours pass only too quickly, and sends every one away with but one expression—"the best ever."

We look for the opera house to be jammed and if you have not secured your seat do so at once.

ROBBERS LOOT BANK AND RIDE AWAY WITH $2,500

Special to the Ada News:

Asher, I. T. Dec. 13.—Five armed men rode into town at 1 o'clock this morning and by aid of explosives robbed the bank of Asher of all money on hand, $2,500, then rode away unimpeded, leaving the announcement that they were the notorious Ben Cravens gang.

The safe was blown up with nitroglycerin. Citizens were at once notified over town by telephone but no one engaged the robbers.

As they rode into town the robbers met Roy Lehman, son of the city marshal, who had been after a doctor. Seizing him and his lantern, two of them held him captive while the rest went on and looted the bank. After 40 minutes work the robbery was completed and the horsemen rode away westward, first imprisoning the boy in a box car where he was found several hours later.

As they rode off the robbers directed the boy to tell the people it was the Ben Cravens gang that did the work.

Convention Must Economize.

Washington, Dec. 13.—The Controller of the Treasury, who is the supreme authority as to the legitimacy of all expenditures under the appropriation acts of Congress, has ruled that "all necessary expenses" may be paid out of the $100,000 appropriated to provide for the Constitutional election and convention in Oklahoma. No expenses in excess of that amount can be contracted, however, and the items must be paid in the order they were contracted.

In Mayor's Court

T. A. Dale, who lives down toward Stonewall, pleaded guilty to imbibing too much last night and was assessed a reasonable fine.

In a jury trial Geo. Mackoy, charged with assault and battery, was adjudged not guilty.

SWEEPING ORDER RESERVING LANDS FROM ALLOTMENT

Muskogee, I. T., Dec. 13.—Over two-thirds of the Choctaw nation and 26 townships in the Cherokee nation have been withdrawn from allotment by telegraphic orders from the secretary of interior. The Choctaw land office and the land division of the Dawes commission is practically paralyzed on account of it, and many large towns in both nations may have the life squeezed out of them if the order stands.

The land withdrawn in the Cherokee nation includes the Ozark and the Wauhatchie clubs and extends from the Arkansas line west to within six miles of Tahlequah. No explanation has been received by Commissioner Bixby except the telegrams from the department and a map on which the territory withdrawn from allotment was indicated by blue pencil drawing, and the notation lines showing land to be withdrawn from allotment on account of the Jack Gordon game preserve and the forestry reserve.

Three days ago when a telegram came ordering all of the timber land withdrawn that lies south and east of the Kiamachi river, the Choctaw nation was stunned. But the order that came yesterday is twice as sweeping. It reaches out from the Arkansas boundary and takes in two-thirds of the Choctaw nation, including hundreds of miles of railroads and dozens of towns to which it means ruin if the land surrounding cannot be allotted and settled. There are 159 townships in the Choctaw nation and 26 in the Cherokee, making a total of 4,262,400 acres. Untold complications may arise from this order. If the Indians who have selected allotments in the designated area are not allowed to hold them, there will not be enough unallotted land in the remainder of the Choctaw and all of the Chickasaw nation to file them on. There is doubt expressed if the executive branches of the government can make such an order stand without congressional legislation. This means a national discussion and investigation, and even if the order is rescinded in the future, it means an interminable delay in settling the allotments, and the hundreds of Indians in the prescribed territory are clamoring for the land which is theirs.

A Home Made Happy by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

About two months ago our baby girl had the measles which settled on her lungs and at last resulted in a severe attack of bronchitis. We had two doctors but no relief was obtained. Every body thought she would die. I went to eight different stores to find a certain remedy which had been recommended to me, and failed to get it, when one of the store keepers insisted that I try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I did so and our baby is alive and well today.—George W. Spence, Holly Springs, N. C. For sale by G. M. Ramsey.

SATURDAYS' SCHOOL ELECTION

The qualified voters of this city should keep in mind that two new members of the school board are to be selected Saturday.

They should also be mindful that we should have good, sound, progressive men—men who grasp the importance of education in general and of Ada's educational interests in particular; men who will perform the duties of the office with enthusiasm, who will gladly contribute their time and best judgment, who will make sacrifices if necessary. Ada is beginning a new era of development along all lines. In the city's progress the school interests must not be suffered to lag.

And the News is going to make a suggestion as to the part of town the new members should come from. At present North Ada has only one member of the board, notwithstanding it contains half of the school population. The North Side has always had scant representation on the board. It would be Democratic, and altogether just, for the voters tacitly to concede the two new men to North Ada. Not that any appreciable sectional feeling exists, not that the north side is in danger of being grossly neglected or discriminated against; simply, such an apportionment of officers is in harmony with our representative form of government which contemplates that all the people and all localities have a spokesman. Perhaps it would be best to elect school directors and aldermen by wards, but as yet the law does not provide for such election. The News submits those two new members should be chosen from North Ada.

YOUR ATTENTION IS REQUESTED

THE O. B. WEAVER REAL ESTATE AND FIRE INSURANCE AGENCY respectfully represents that it is strongly equipped to transact any business intelligently and effectively. In buying, selling, renting and insuring town and farm property its facilities are unequaled in this half of the new state. To warrant this sweeping assertion, this agency has been engaged several years in getting ready. How so?

FIRST: Real Estate Associations have been perfected in the localities of the North and East from which much desirable immigration to the new state is confidently expected. It is determined that this fertile district shall secure its full apportionment.

SECOND: Industrious efforts have been put forth to secure the location in the surrounding country of every surplus allotment, from which restrictions have been removed, and its position before the market.

THIRD: The circulation of newspapers through which this agency has unlimited advertising privileges has now been enlarged until any character of property desired to be bought, sold or leased may have advertisement through five news publications of a combined weekly circulation of six thousand copies.

FOURTH: This agency has made a record of attending to business promptly and conscientiously, thereby producing a guarantee of future responsibility.

The business of non-resident property owners is solicited

OVERDRAFTS

It is becoming well known by business men that overdrafts, whether large or small, are not approved by the comptroller of the currency. The large central banks allow overdrafts only in a very small way, and this, it matters not how small, is not approved by the powers that be. This unbusinesslike habit of overdrafts grew out of advancing on moving products, such as cotton, grain and fat stock on the move. The overdraft system is wrong and the man whose account is always overdrawn is the man who spends more money than he makes and will finally have no bank account.

THE KILTIES ARE HERE

In A Blaze of Color, With a Blare of Trumpets the Scots Invade Ada

Over the M. K. T., the much heralded Kilties Band arrived this forenoon from Oklahoma City for two performances in Ada.

Soon in groups they issued from their private car and took a look at the town. At twelve o'clock the whole troupe, 45 strong, led by the bugle chorus paraded Main street. Headed by the Giant Drum Major, Donald MacCormack, all in the bizarre costume of the Scot, the parade was most picturesque.

One does not have to be accomplished in the technique of music to enjoy the performances of Kilties Band. To hear them is an inspiration to both young and old, to those schooled in music and those unschooled. It is such an attraction as has never before visited Ada, and its equal probably will not be seen here in many a day.

For the night performance the sale of seats has surpassed that of any previous attraction in Ada.

THE NEW MONSTROSITY

Has a Mania for Peeking Into Private Houses

A new species of moral perversity, or human monstrosity, appears to have been discovered in Ada.

He or it seems to be afflicted with a mania for peeking into windows and transoms of private houses and spying upon the privacy of the apartments. Such a person has been detected of late disporting himself thus at a number of Ada homes, though no one has yet got a good look or a good shot at him.

There seems no reason to fear violence from this thing, for he is entirely on the sneak. The probability is he is not mentally sane, and unless sooner or later shot on some body's premises he will land in a mad house.

About Titles

In a recent Minnesota supreme court case Justice Flandrau, reviewing the labor and skill necessarily displayed in the compilation of an abstract, says: "The making of a perfect abstract of title to a piece of land with all the incumbrances which affect it, involves a great exercise of legal learning and careful research. The person preparing such an abstract must understand fully all the laws on the subject of conveying, descent and inheritances, uses and trusts, devises, and in fact every branch of the law that can affect real estate, in its various mutations from owner to owner, sometimes by operation of law, and again by act of the parties."

IN THE WORLD OF SPORTS

"Football Fines" a Promising Winter Game.

Is intended to Develop Poise, Expand the Chest and Produce Quickness of Eye and Leg.

I suppose there is not a person living who would not like to be quick on his legs, quick with his eye, supple, poised and with fine chest expansion, writes Mr. Hustace Miles, the British champion covered court lawn tennis player. In this article I want to suggest a means to that end. All that is needed is a ball and a wall.

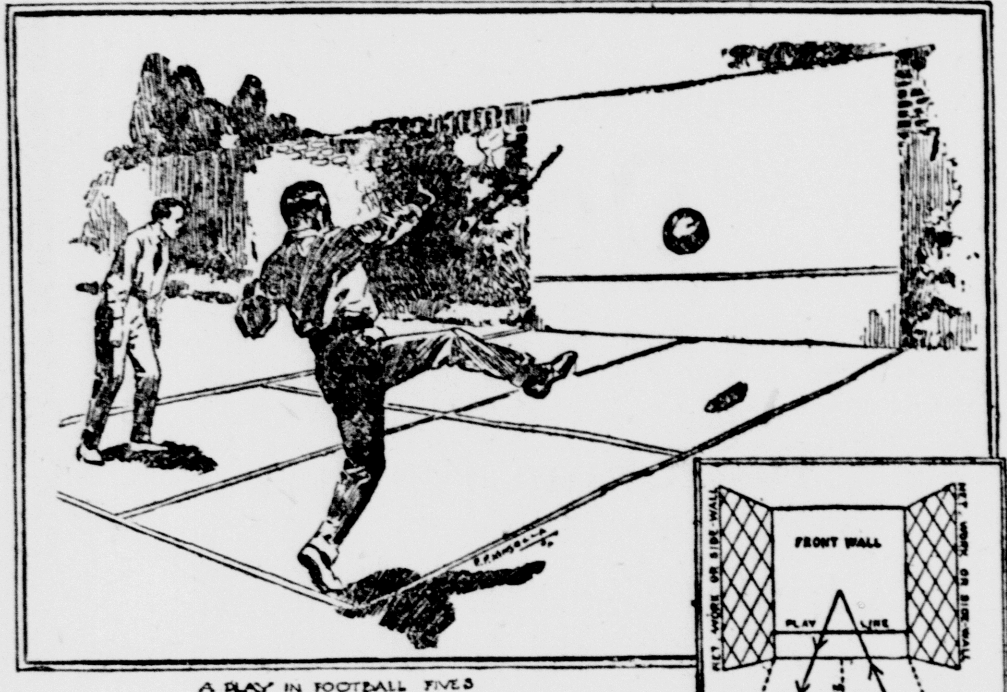

The ball should be soft, and, preferably, large, like an association football. The wall should have marked on it a play line, above which the ball must be kicked. The play line should be at least two feet six inches above the floor.

On the floor should be a line from the middle of the front wall, dividing the court into sections, and another line some little distance from the front wall and parallel to the front wall.

The player who begins the game must kick the ball (by a drop or place kick) onto the wall above the play line so that it pitches between the wall and the cross court line. This, which corresponds to the service of lawn tennis, is to be alternately from section D, to pitch into section A, and from section C, to pitch into section B.

The other player has to kick the ball, before it has bounded twice, back onto the front wall above the play line, but the ball need not now pitch between the wall and the cross court line. It must pitch between the wall and another line, further back, called the boundary line. If it goes beyond the boundary line, or beyond either side boundary line, it is "out," and the kicker loses the rally.

I have purposely refrained from mentioning actual distances, since different balls will require different distances. Experience will soon settle the best distances for the cross court and boundary lines.

The first kick—the "serve," as it would be called in other ball games—should not be too difficult to return. That is why there is the cross court line.

The other kicks—the rally—should not go too far back in the court. Success should depend more on placing than on sheer force.

Beginners might do well to have these two rules:

1. The server is allowed one "fault"—i. e., he may kick the ball below the play line or so that it pitches further back than the cross court line once. If he makes a second "fault" in succession he is put "out," and his opponent serves. Expert players should be put "out," by a single "fault."

2. The players are allowed to take the ball not only full (on the volley) or when it has bounced once, but also before it has bounced three times. Experts must take the ball before it has bounced twice.

The scoring can be for five points a game or for 15 points a game. The weaker player should have a handicap, starting with as many points—say two—as will make the game even.

When one player gets in the way of the other so as to prevent his having a fair kick, there should be a "let"—i. e., the point should be played out again.

Only the server scores. The player who is taking the service, if he loses a point, lets his opponent—the server—score one ace. If he wins a point he puts himself "in" to serve.

In fact, the game is like hand fives, only it is played with the feet instead of with the hands, and is adapted for beginners.

Instead of a "single," in which two players meet, there can be a "double" or "four," in which two pairs meet.

Any plain wall can be used; for example, the side wall of a building.

Or a corner can be used, where two walls meet. In this case there will be play off the side wall.

Or a room can be used. In this case there will be play off the side walls and the back wall. Any empty stable or barn lends itself for play.

The advantages of the game are obvious.

First, there is the "court" all ready; a wall will suffice, and walls in the city are like trees in the country.

Second, the play is cheap. A ball will last for a long time.

Third, the play is simple.

Fourth, there is fun and sport. This is important. A business man before or after his office hours does not much care to skip or jump or run or do Swedish drill or spring grip dumb bell exercises. The things may be hygienic, but they are not attractive. He wants play. He wants excitement. He wants sport.

Fifth, there is the magnificent training for many of the most important muscles of the body.

Think how the liver and stomach are "massaged" by the raising of the legs; walking will not do this. Think how the "wind" is improved, and with the breathing, how the whole health is benefited. Think how the toes and ankles and legs become quick and lithe and strong. Think how the whole leg is developed. Think of the training of the clumsy left leg in particular. Think of the grand practice in poise; in the rapid recovery of balance. Think of the control needed. Think also of the splendid training of the eye.

Altogether, the game, varied by hand fives with a smaller ball, bids fair to become most popular when once it has been fairly tried.

Only, ordinary players must beware of starting the exercise too violently.

With this proviso, I commend the new sport to all who want to be in the pink of physical condition, and who prefer such an interesting and social means of becoming "fit."

I believe it will prove one of the finest outlets for superfluous physical energy.

KICKERS IN GREAT DEMAND.

Coaches Will Pay Much Attention to This Position in 1907.

Coaches are agreeing that when the season of 1907 begins, more attention must be paid to kicking than has been the custom in the past. The fact that they concede the importance of the kicking game should not be lost sight of by the youngsters who are in the various prep schools throughout the country.

They will become the great players of the future, and the earlier that they adapt themselves to the requirements of football as it is likely to be played for some years to come, the better they will succeed when they make actual effort to find places on various teams.

Not only should young players practice kicking to the best of their ability, but it is also incumbent that they devote plenty of time to catching punts. Fumblers and muffers will be looked upon askance another season. The coaches have seen so many of them up to the present time that they are beside themselves with annoyance, because of the weakness of some of their most valued men in that respect. Hereafter there is likely to be a regular drill for everybody in catching punts as much as there is one in carrying the ball.

Quits Rules Committee.

Prof. Paul J. Dashiell, head coach of the Naval academy football team, has severed his connection with the American intercollegiate football rules committee, of which he has for a number of years been chairman. Prof. Dashiell was recently promoted to a full professorship at the Naval academy, with the rank of lieutenant, and it is understood that hereafter he will devote his entire time to his academic and sporting work at the academy.

HANDLESS BILLIARD WONDER.

George Sutton Master of Many Men Not Handicapped as He Is.

The most interesting character identified with the game of billiards is George H. Sutton, the handleless expert.

Considering his physical limitations his skill is more remarkable than that of any other billiard player, past or present.

Of all the thousands of persons who play the game in various parts of the world there are not more than eight, if there are that many, who are his equals.

He plays all the games in which the billiard cue is a factor, with amazing ability. His comprehension of all styles of billiards corresponds to that of Jake Schaefer, and his execution presents extremes of delicacy and force which the wizard cannot excel. In no sense a specialist, he executes all classes of shots from a simple carom to the masse, does exquisite work on the rail, playing from 100 to 500 or no count, and has made averages as high as 60 at eighteen-inch balk line; makes close draws and follows with rare neatness and precision; invariably attempts the right shot and directs every effort with a view of obtaining favorable position.

Sutton is thirty-five years of age and a resident of Milwaukee. When but eight years of age he lost both hands by coming in contact with a circular saw.

A great deal of his playing is done by using the bridge, and the skill with which he removes the bridge and handles his cue is amazing. When the ball is close to the rail he rests the cue on the rail and guides it with the left arm and makes the stroke with the right.

In making the masse shot he reverses the system used by other players. Instead of having the stroke arm up above and the bridge down near the balls he makes a bridge over his shoulder and has the stroke arm down near the balls.

When asked for a few pointers on the fine points of the game and the means by which an amateur might accomplish the best results, Sutton stated the stroke is the first important feature, the second is the draw and follow and the third single cushion shots. These should be practiced constantly by the amateur, and in a short time he will get surprising results.

"I believe in an amateur receiving instructions from the professional, for the reason that he can acquire more skill in a dozen or more lessons than he could perhaps in several years of his own efforts. The judgment of force is one of the most essential features. This can only be acquired by a system of playing the draw and follow shots. I believe every man ought to play billiards. It is a mild form of physical exercise and a splendid mental exercise."

HUTCHINS GIVES UP FOOTBALL.

Badger Athletic Director to Cut Out Gridiron Work Next Year.

Dr. C. P. Hutchins, athletic director of the University of Wisconsin, has announced that he would not coach the Badger football team next season. His reason is that it is too much work for him to handle the football team in addition to his many duties as head of the athletic department.

Hutchins' first year at Wisconsin has been a successful one. He has turned out a good football team from a mediocre lot of material, and has surprised every one by the success of his team, which went through the season without a defeat.

Hutchins will remain in charge of the athletic department, but the Wisconsin authorities are now on a still hunt for a man who can coach the football team and qualify for that position under the new conference rules. There is some chance of Prof. McCarthy, the old Brown gridiron star, who has been acting as assistant coach, taking the place at the head of the football squad.

ANNA HELD AND THE LUNATIC

French Actress Meets an Elderly Person with Courtly Manners.

Speaking of poached eggs and lunatic asylums and such things, E. D. Price, manager of the Interstate Amusement company, has a harrowing little story to relate. It was in Detroit and Anna Held was brooding so gloomily over the subject of lost diamonds that the solicitous Mr. Price was afraid that she might become deranged. A happy thought struck him. He would take the disconsolate little chanteuse through one of the local retreats where people with plaster loose in their garrets were sheltered and safely guarded. It would be an object lesson. It was a cheerful, homelike institution, nestling in the midst of lovely grounds radiant with the rich autumnal coloring of fading foliage. The patients were apparently happy and care free. They were in the harmless class. The violent wards were shunned as likely to get upon a sensitive artist's nerves.

One very charming old gentleman man recognized Miss Held and begged an introduction. He was of the old school, and with the blue spike-tail coat and brass buttons and ruffled shirt front. His ruddy complexion and snow-white hair made him look like a distinguished statesman of the Webster-Clay period. Miss Held fell in love with him at once. His dignity and courtliness and grand manner were superb. And his keen intellectual grasp was revealed in his discussion of the musical, literary and dramatic arts. His tribute to the French people, delivered with the eloquent enthusiasm of one who knew his Paris like an open book, was captivating. Miss Held could have embraced him.

"Surely," she said, timidly, "it is some great mistake, some terrible wrong that has brought you among these people. You are a second Dreyfus—a victim of some wicked conspiracy."

The courtly old gentleman sighed and smiled sadly. "There was a conspiracy," he said, with quiet resignation. "There is a great mistake and a terrible wrong. But I have learned to bear every injustice with composure. After all I find much food for philosophical reflection in the study of these poor creatures with whom I am compelled to dwell."

The comedienne's big eyes were dimmed by tears. She held out her hand impulsively. "Do not despair," she said. "Surely you will find deliverance."

"It is certain to come," replied the charming veteran, cheerfully. "Good-by. I wish you long life and a continuance of your brilliant career. I must beg of you that when you grasp my hand you do so very gently, as it is made of glass and I should regret exceedingly to have you break it."

Logical Reasoning.

James K. Hackett, back from London, ascribes the dullness of last season's theatrical season in England to bridge whist and automobilism.

"Why," says Mr. Hackett, "the people over there have gone crazy over these two fads. They play bridge whist in foul weather and go touring the country in automobiles when it is fair."

"So strongly did the love of the English people for bridge whist playing strike Mr. Alfred Sutro that he takes occasion in 'The Walls of Jericho' to take them to task, directing one of its strongest scenes to the evil of an over-indulgence in this fashionable fad."

Should Be In America.

There is a tiger in an English "zoo" with just 13 stripes on its body and forty-five stars on its tail.

ACTRESS IN A WHEELBARROW

New York Girl Pays a Bet She Made on Hearst for Governor.

The audience which poured out of the Casino at New York city one night recently at the close of the performance of "The Blue Moon" stopped on its way home to witness another show which had not been announced on the bills.

A wheelbarrow was drawn up on the sidewalk close to the stage entrance of the Casino. By it stood two of the ushers. Then out tripped Arline La Crosse, a plump and pretty member of the cast, followed by Helen Chadwick, one of the chorus girls. Both were in street costume. With the assistance of the ushers, Miss La Crosse climbed into the wheelbarrow and sat down and tucked her feet under her.

"Three cheers for Charles E. Hughes," cried the actress as Miss Chadwick caught the handles and began to wheel her around the block. The crowd followed, making jovial remarks.

"You fit it too tight. Why don't you hang your feet out?" cried one of the spectators.

In making the turn into Sixth avenue Miss La Crosse was nearly spilled out and there was a display of hosiery. People came out of the restaurants and drinkeries to see the show go by. By the time Thirty-eighth street was reached several hundred persons were marching ahead, behind and beside the wheelbarrow.

"Oh, how fat you are!" gasped Miss Chadwick, as she set down the handles and stopped to get her breath at Thirty-eighth street and Broadway. The crowd sang as the wheelbarrow proceeded up Broadway. When the stage entrance to the Casino was reached Miss La Crosse jumped out of the barrow and into a cab and vanished. She had won her election bet with the chorus girl.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"Sir Anthony," a new play by Had-don Chambers, exploiting William Norris, was produced successfully in Boston.

Mrs. William Faversham (Julie Opp) has completed a novelization of "The Squaw Man," which will be published by Harper & Bros.

Denman Thompson contemplates a return to the stage next season, appearing once more in his old character of Joshua Whitcomb in "The Old Homestead."

"Dora," a domestic drama by Had-don Chambers, will be produced by Charles Dillingham early next season.

Lulu Glaser will begin rehearsals shortly of Paul M. Potter's comedy, "The Beauty Shop," in which she will appear under the direction of Klaw & Erlanger.

With his share of the royalties from his musical successes, "Mlle. Modiste" and "The Red Mill"—written in conjunction with Victor Herbert—averaging $700 weekly, Henry Blossom will henceforth devote his talents to the writing of plays of serious purpose.

"The Story of a Country Town," a work on which he is now engaged, will be the first product of his new ambition. The piece, which is to be produced by Charles Dillingham next season, has been given the title prefix, "Miss Philura."

"Keegan's Pal," a play by Paul Wil-stach, will serve as the vehicle for the debut of Charles Cartwright as a star under the Shubert management.

Once again Miss Fay Davis' stellar aspirations have been crushed. "The House of Mirth," the dramatization of Mrs. Wharton's novel, in which Miss Davis appeared at the Savoy theater, was shelved after a brief fortnight in Gotham.

TOMBS BUILT ABOVE GROUND.

New Orleans Cemetery That Suggests Old World Scene.

New Orleans.—The accompanying picture suggests a scene in the Old World, instead of one of that most interesting of places, the old St. Louis cemetery in New Orleans. As the city was originally built on low ground, with massive levees rising on every side to prevent inundation when the floods come, the tombs were built above ground. Consequently they are like nothing seen in other parts of the country.

What the beautiful Pere la Chaise is to Paris the old St. Louis cemetery is to New Orleans. Its tombs are arranged in tiers above ground, many of them beautifully ornamented and carved, looking like stone cabinets in some vast treasure garden.

Within these tombs lie the most aristocratic dead of Louisiana, representing many old-time French families of that historic city. The photograph shows a section of wall thickly lined with single vaults. Most of the inscriptions are more than a century old. Vines have grown up, almost concealing the quaint French inscriptions of love and consolation. Wreaths of immortelles garland others. A small shrine of the Virgin is at another, and in places vases of faded flowers are the tributes of the last feast day. Virginia creepers hang in festoons over the sealed and barred doors guarding the dead. Along the walks are vases still luxuriant with flowers and vines of a century's planting.

IS THE YOUNGEST EDITOR.

Only Nine Years Old, Yet He Publishes a Newspaper.

Lexington, Ky.—The youngest editor in the United States, if not in the world, is Thomas Overstreet Davis, and he is nine years old. He is the son of R. Lee Davis, a newspaper man. When school closed in June for the summer vacation young Davis told his father he wanted to learn to set type. His father humored him and made arrangements at a local job office for the boy to be given a case to "play with." But the boy was deadly in earnest, and every morning he would go to the shop and stick type.

Before his father knew that he had even learned the "case" he surprised him one day when he came home to dinner by flashing a copy of the "Lexington News," which he had gotten out with his own hands, writing the locals, personals, society, setting the type and "kicking off" the paper on a small job press. It contained news of the street upon which he lived. The boy gets out the paper regularly. It is a two-column folio. It has 200 subscribers.

Project Large Glove Factory.

A dispatch from Gloversville, N. Y., states that two members of the firm of Fownes Brothers & Co., of England, have recently been there looking over suitable sites to establish a branch glove factory in that city. It is stated that this English firm intends to establish the largest glove plant in Gloversville, which now has 150 factories. Fownes Brothers & Co. recently built a silk glove factory at Amsterdam, N. Y. The firm was established in London in the year 1777.

Well Known in Washington.

James Burke-Roché of Ireland and the world, who has instituted suit for divorce from his American wife after she has married again, was an active newspaper man for years before he entered politics. While in Washington he attempted to interest local capitalists in an enterprise for the construction of an overland telegraph line to Alaska and tried to have a bill introduced in congress giving a government subsidy to the scheme. John Hay, then secretary of state, was one of the few men of prominence with whom Roché appeared to be well acquainted or to desire to know.
